NEW TRADITIONS

AN INSTITUTION OF LEARNING

STUDENTS' CREED

I believe in East Central High School as an institution of learning, a storehouse of knowledge, a stepping stone for higher education, a place of fellowship between students and teachers, built upon high principles of morality, honesty, loyalty, school pride, and tradition.

Realizing the bonds between my school and country, I therefore believe it is my duty to uphold their principles and to thoroughly utilize my talents, physically and mentally, in a manner exemplary of a good citizen.

E.C.H.S.

CARDINAL

I Respect The Institution Of My Learning

The world is knocking impatiently at a door. Beyond that door lie the answers to grave problems: a cure for cancer, a solution to world problems, and a clearer knowledge of the American way of life and purpose. The door is that of education, and the men searching for the answers are not only the great educators of today, but also the promise of each East Central student who has ever had the curiosity to seek the answer to a probing question. It is up to me to absorb all I can so that I might be able to join in the attempt to open that door.

Linda Thurmond gains experience as an efficient PBX operator.

Home economic facilities offer good training for future homemakers Carol Church, Linda Radcliffe, Carol Yandian, Dee Ann Hubbard and Linda Kirkpatrick.

Cathy Stevens listens attentively as Mr. Max Matheson, physiology teacher, explains the function of the ear.

Crowded halls and social scenes create a relaxed atmosphere before classes begin.

"I will study and get ready, and perhaps my chance will come."

-Lincoln-

Mid term assignments draw students to the library for quiet research and concentration.

Majorettes twirl machetes to provide excitement and halftime entertainment for Cardinal spectators.

The cafeteria line doesn't move fast enough for hungry students! Steps to the gym provide a good place for male gossip and morning congregations.

Linda Beavers and Mickey Turnage practice good voting procedures.

Friendship and fellowship rank high at East Central. The friendly "hi" and kind words that flow from person to person while changing classes or eating lunch make my day complete.

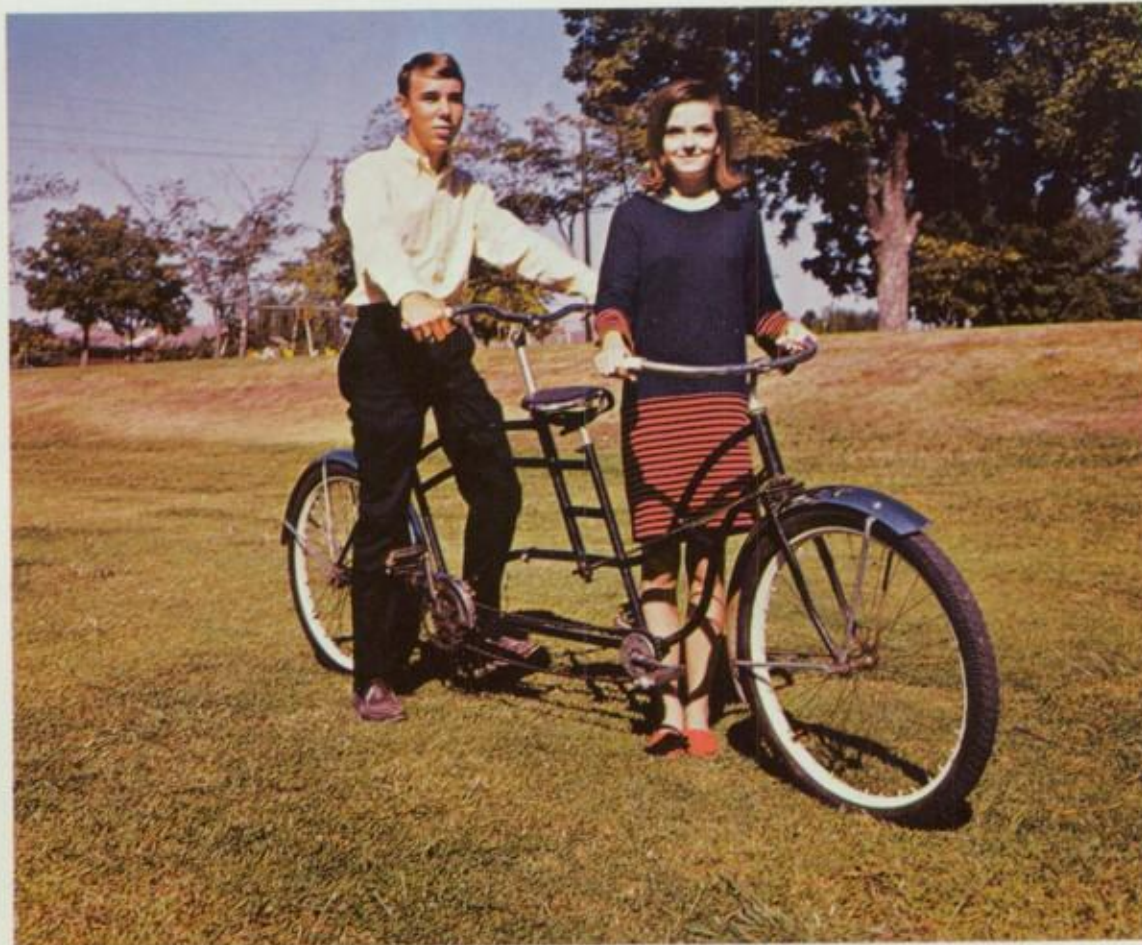

A friend at East Central is one who will confide in me and gladly listen to my problems, no matter how great or small, and help me with that tough geometry problem. He will be glad to do anything he can to make my day a little more worthwhile, while I try to do the same for him.

"Fellowship" has a true meaning at East Central.

"The only way to have a friend is to be one."

-Emerson-

I Belong In A Place Of Fellowship

Vicki Thompson and Bruce Hancock get ready for that ride on the bicycle built for two.

Mrs. Jewell Hilderbrand, English teacher and department chairman, expresses the vivid involvement of a football game, where fellowship and loyalty go hand in hand.

Part Of That Cardinal Spirit

Coach Bob Cunningham briefs the CARDINAL A-Squad on first half strategy.

I Proudly

Juniors Glen Miller and Phyllis Ernst admire Elvin Well's class ring.

East Central's front entrance opens wide in welcome for all.

I find that loyalty is a trait which does not happen by chance, but is acquired through attending football games, standing while I sing our school song, and feeling a burst of pride I say "I go to East Central." I feel a surge of loyalty when I'm away from school representing Girls' State, FHA conventions, writing articles for the Tulsa papers, or traveling with the Concert Choir.

Although I may face conflicts and hardships in the future, I will always be loyal to East Central, remembering these years with gratitude.

Display My Loyalty To East Central

Car washes provide a splashing success in raising funds for senior activities.

"There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure
and true;
Then give to the world the best
you have,
And the best will come back to you."

-Mary Ainge De Vere-

Senior students combine efforts with Mr. J. W. Payne, Principal, in directing school policies and procedures.

Mr. O. D. Bell, history teacher and department chairman, sets a good example in keeping the building neat.

...I Uphold The

As a student at East Central, I recognize the inseparable bonds between my school and country. The patriotism I hold for my homeland is reflected in the pride I feel for my school and its organizations, both social and academic. I'm devoting my extra energy and resources to keep East Central attractive and efficient, the way it was designed, and to uphold the flag and all who serve it.

Through my school I am striving to gain the knowledge essential to compete in an ultra-progressive world. I will be greatly responsible in the future for the progress and well being of my country.

Knowing this, I will fulfill my pledge.

In order to plant a hardy shrub, gym boys put a lot of manpower behind their shovels.

The U.S. Army Band brought a standing ovation with "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Bonds Between My School And Country

East Central's familiar flagpole offers a fitting place to assemble in the mornings.

"Patriotism is easy to understand in America. It means looking out for yourself by looking out for your country."

-Coolidge-

OLD GLORY: Flag and colors hold a position of honor at East Central.

Marching band members participate in Tulsa's civic and patriotic activities.

... I Cherish The Ties Of Friendship

I find that the world is made up of many important forces, and to my fellow East Central students, the friendships and contacts made in everyday life are among the most important.

Lifelong friendships are formed by chance meetings, dates, and informal discussions.

Stimulating contacts are made while rooting our teams, practicing citizenship traits, and consoling others in time of need.

Every day ties such as these give us a base of happiness for a lifetime.

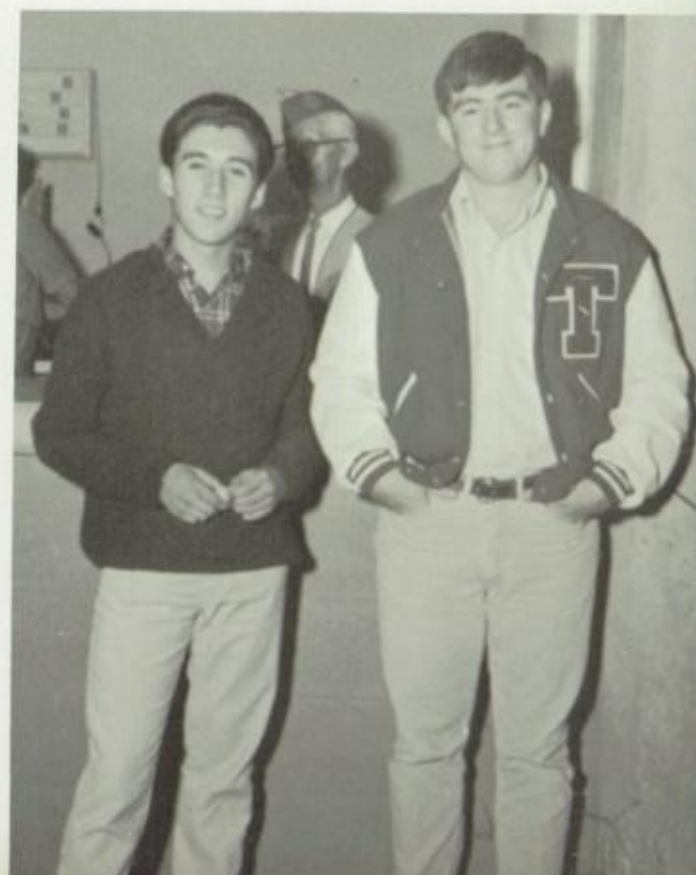

An autumn picnic sets the scene for students to blend recreation with busy schedules.

Gloria Blankenship convinces Charles Mc Grew that eating pizza is a great teenage pastime, while Debbie Spurlock and Mike Hawkins look on.

Willie Polgatz, East Central's foreign exchange student, and his American brother, Mike Mauldin, are a strong example of international friendship.

Jodie Hightower enjoys glistening water in the school natatorium.

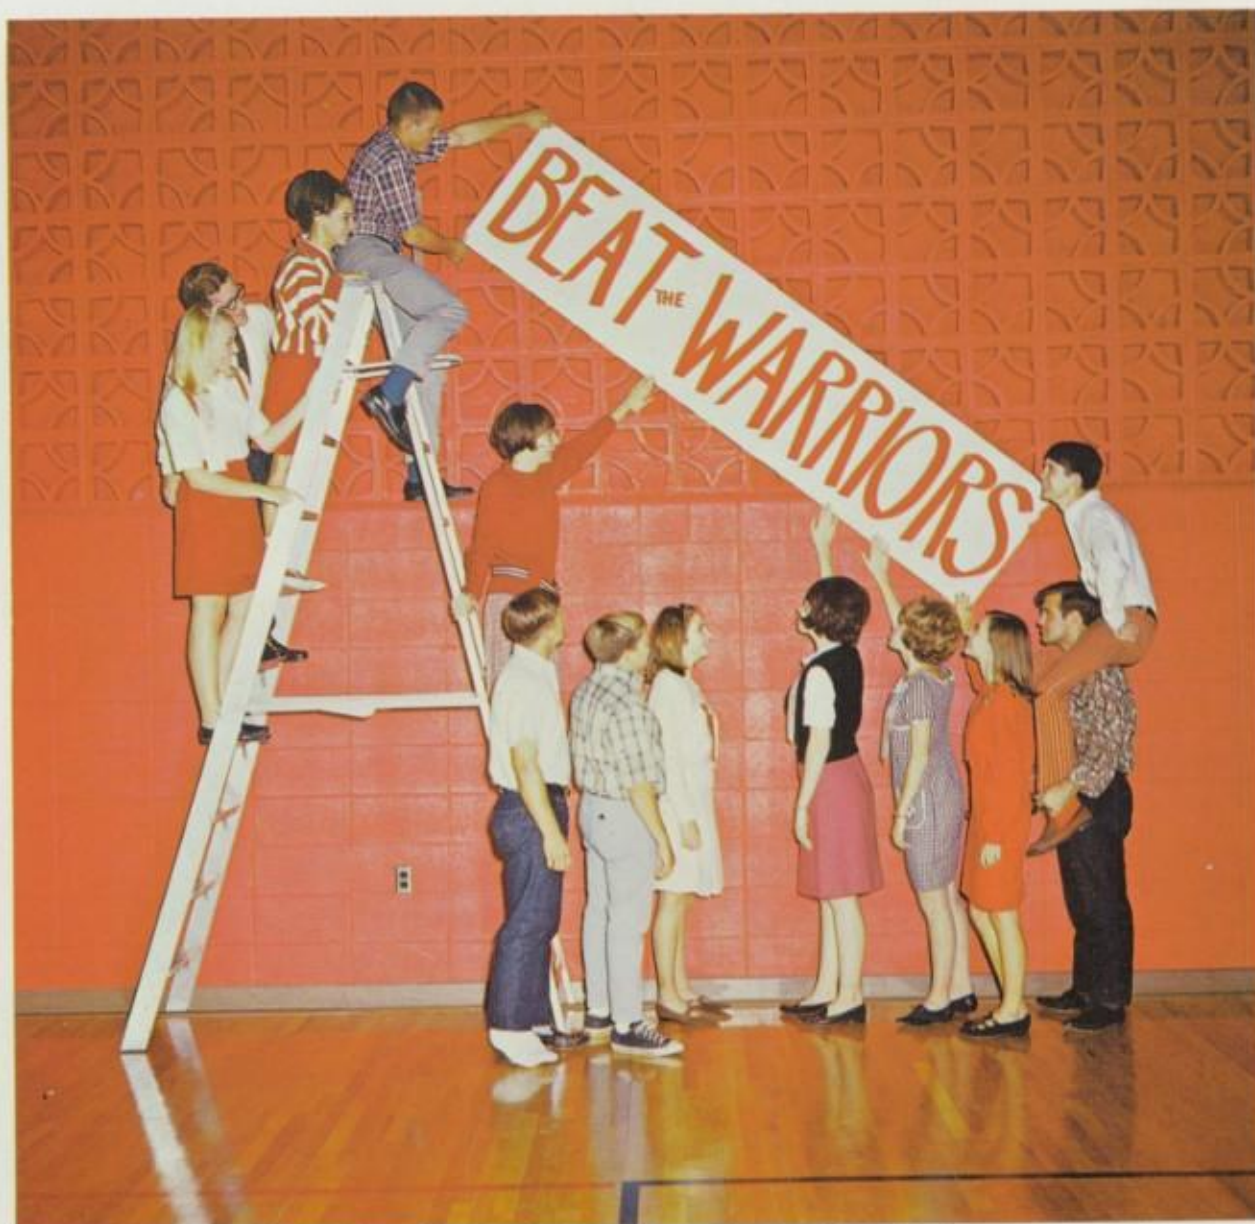

Small talk turns to congratulations or consolations when report card time rolls around.

"Life is to be fortified by many friendships. To love, to be loved, is the greatest happiness of existence."

-Sydney Smith-

Whether the teams win or lose, high spirit always exists between Cardinal fans.

I'll Utilize My Talents

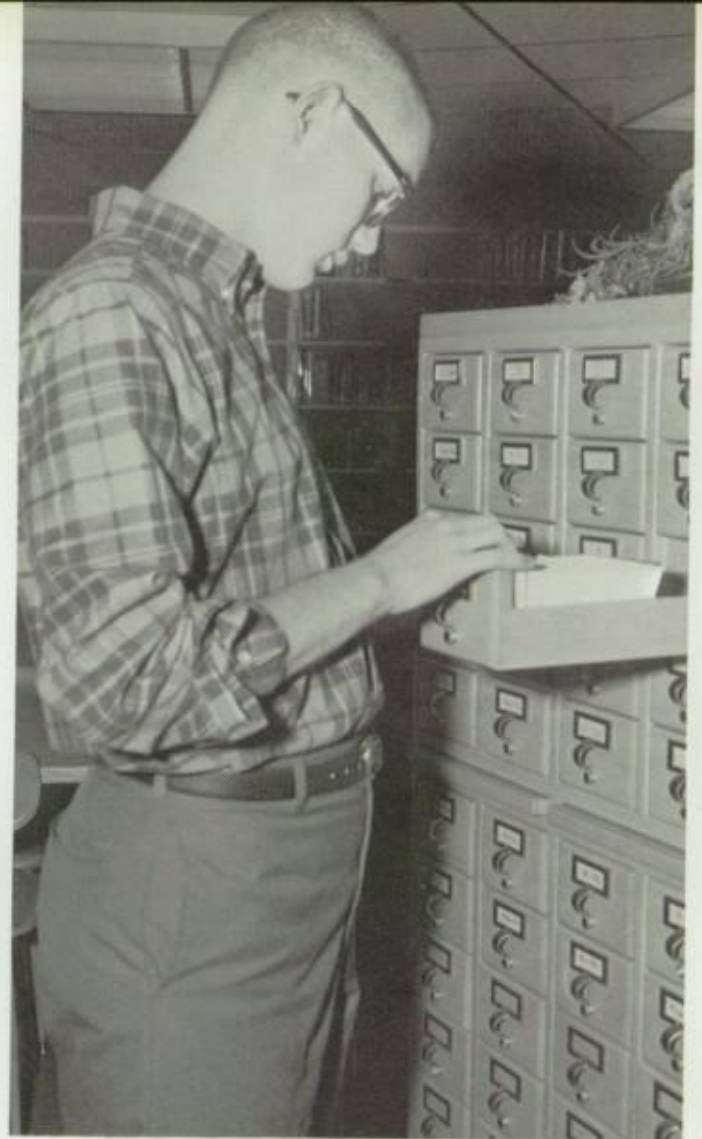

As a senior, I know this is the climax of my high school education. It is my responsibility to see that my former school years serve me well in my chosen career.

As an underclassman, I see new opportunities opening every day which will help me in the future.

I represent the voice of all students in unison. I will utilize all the talents I have acquired at East Central to become a good citizen of the world.

Future journalists get on-the-job training by reporting for the school paper, CARDINAL NEWS.

Joe Camp sets a new tradition by becoming East Central's first National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist.

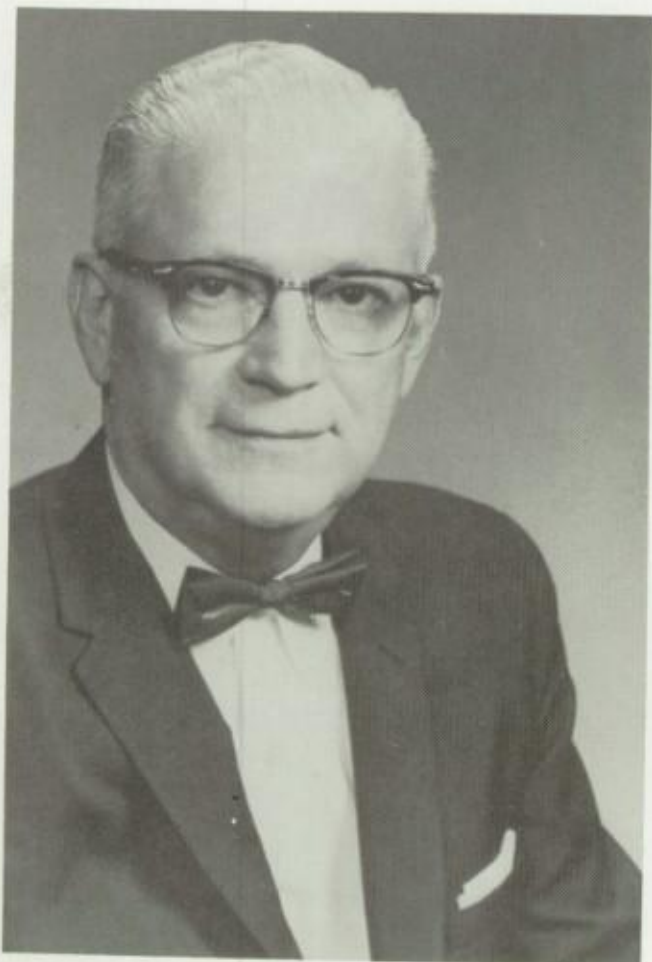

Mrs. Virginia Erbert, director, conducts the concert choir, winner of district and state choral contests.

ACULTY

Dr. Charles C. Mason

To members of East Central's graduating class I extend congratulations on another successful school year. The theme of this yearbook, "School Pride Through New Traditions," has a number of implications, for school pride can manifest itself in a variety of ways: pride in the physical facilities of your school, pride in your personal appearance and conduct, pride in your respect for learning, pride in your striving for excellence in whatever activity you may undertake. So I urge you-form carefully and well your ideals, for from them will evolve the beliefs, the customs, and the attitudes that will help to guide the school life of generations of students to follow you.

Mr. James W. Payne, Principal

CHANGE-about us we experience change. We are involved in change. This past year we experienced changes within our school building, curriculum, enrollment, and manner of doing things in class and campus. We made adjustments in some of the traditions of our school activities, and we established some new procedures in assemblies and extra-curricular organizations. Some old and heartwarming traditions have been modified to fit our changing school environment. Our "Cardinal" objective is quality education, loyalty to school and country, with concern for our fellowman and the dignity and worth of each individual. It is important that we each learn to glean the good from the traditional past and to use it as building blocks, so that we may build well for the future. Reminisce the year of 1966-67 as you browse through the pages of this book. May the memories here contribute to your store of building stones for a better tomorrow.

Academic Staff Continues To Soar As East Central Building Nears Capacity

Headed by Principals J. W. Payne and George Dorsch, East Central's 1966-67 academic staff increased to a record high of 49 members, including three full time guidance counselors and 41 teachers, as increasing student enrollment indicated a near fulfillment in the original building design of 50 teaching posts. Thirteen additional teachers joined the staff this year: Mr. Ronald Bloom, Mrs. Nell Bryant, Mr. Weldon Childress, Mrs. Louise Hood, Miss Carol Marsh, Mrs. Thelma Notley, Mr. Howard Potts, Mrs. Jo Ann Sellers, Mr. Duane Selvey, Miss Jean Sisson, Mrs. Margaret Treat, Mr. Jim Tygart, and Mr. Jim Wagoner. Stage productions were given a tremendous boost as Scott Linder, stagecraft director, joined the staff, bringing professional experience as lighting director of the Tulsa Little Theater to raise East Central's standing in the stagecraft arts. E.C. also accommodated 16 intern teachers.

Eleven Departments At E.C.

Art functions in the daily lives of all of us. The art department developed imagination and creativity through the varied media of clay, watercolors, and stitchery. The business department offered 14 courses in typing shorthand, and office machines to prepare students for the commercial world. Oral and written communication was stressed in English. Speech students acquired self-confidence for public performances, and journalists practiced precision in objective writing. Spanish, French, and German were offered this year, with stress on speaking, reading, and writing. Home economics students learned improvement of home life and efficient management, whereas Industrial Arts boys explored future job fields in woodwork, drafting, and power mechanics. Mathematics students realized not only the increasing contribution of mathematics to modern culture, but its importance to scientific education. Band and choral groups gained prestige in musical appearances, while physical education students prepared for a life of physical fitness. Universal orderliness was the theme of natural science classes, with Chemistry students studying the theory of sub-atomic particles. Geology students traced earth history through fossils and rock formations, as Physics students studied matter and energy. Social Studies students learned the relationship of things past, to present and future, and their impact on society.

A total of 83 courses were offered this year in East Central's expanding curriculum, with some 23 fields of interest established in the Vocational-Technical Center's second year of operation, a format providing a wide spectrum of educational opportunities for East Central. As the influx of student enrollment intensified, new needs created new demands, and East Central kept pace by evolving such additional courses as French, German, Developmental Reading, Advanced Journalism, Commercial Art, Business Math, and Records Business Law and Problems, Notehand and Communications, Advanced Speech, Stagecraft, Modern History, Home Living and Family Economics, Distributive Education, Technical Drafting, Analytics, Girls' Glee Club, Geology, and Psychology.

In addition to curriculum growth, East Central benefited from its expanding PTA membership and activities, which keep close relations for students between school and home. East Central's PTA was led by President John Maples, Bradford Camp, A. A. Peck, Mrs. N. A. Byars, and Mrs. Pat Oglesby.

Ernestine Pierce offers practical training in office and business machine courses.

The closely related fields of mathematics and science keep department heads Ed McCray and Pat Ward interested in the progress of their mutual students.

Indoctrined into East Central's first full year of operation, coupled with exciting new school traditions in the formation period, came a new philosophy of education and achievement: that of accelerated progress for each individual and that of logical patterns of learning, structured by student ability. The English and History departments combined team efforts and talents this year to introduce their subject offerings, by literary and historical significance, into a unified study of World Literature and World History for all Cardinal students, regardless of grade classification. The highest ambition of the duo-department correlation was that each student realize the influence of our complex heritage from the past in a sequence of time, order, and culture. The new program will bring England and America's traditions into focus for the next two years. A new "phasing" program grouped students into five phases of potential learning ability. The high point of the triway program was the independent study sessions twice a week in the English area, designed to promote self reliance and research methods in order to cope with higher education, or the business world.

CLASSES

The Busy Days Were Best

Unity and hard work were the keynotes of the Class of '67 under the sponsorship of O. D. Bell, who has successfully guided Senior classes at East Central for the last five years. The spring prom, a senior-sponsored all-school play, and graduation filled the last memorable days of high school for the seniors. Outstanding seniors of the Student Council, J. B. Avants, President, Gary Gallier, Vice-President, Vicki Galloway, Secretary, and Dana Biggs, Treasurer, were instrumental in all senior activities.

Class officers Gene Covington, president, Nancy Stouffer, secretary, and Debbie Burson, vice president, led the seniors to a notable first full-year in East Central's new building.

Senior pins, caps and gowns, scholarships, tests, and announcement orders filled the fleeting days, as seniors prepared for Baccalaureate, May 28, and Graduation ceremonies, May 29. The senior accomplishments during the first full year in the new building, such as firmly establishing the Student Creed and introducing Miss East Central I, will make this class a well-remembered one. The 251 member strong class also made notable academic accomplishments which caused faculty members to stand back and watch with admiration and satisfaction.

There Were Many To Laud With Honor And Distinction

The senior class was well represented in all organizations, as large numbers who were connected with many groups served on the Senior Board, or simply rendered their services in a moment of need. This class shall be remembered as its individuals continue to make their most probable impressions on the world in which they live, work, and play, bettering the world through traits and knowledge acquired from their years at East Central.

Outstanding scholars Elvin Wells and Leigh Ann Riggs pace junior academic activities.

Nikki Bryant, first year junior sponsor, complimented the class on its energy and efficiency.

Juniors Concentrate On Fund Raising

Class officers Robert Hughes, President, Jamie Ryburn, Vice President, and Pam Roach, Secretary-Treasurer, led the juniors on major fund and school improvement projects. These proved to be profitable for the Junior Class.

As enthusiastic and spirited juniors began their second year in East Central's circular halls, Mrs. Nikki Bryant, sponsor, was eager to set high goals for the hard-working class of '68. Robert Hughes, serving as president of the class, worked diligently along with Vice President Jamie Ryburn, Secretary-Treasurer Pam Roach, and the 12 members of the Junior Board. The industrious juniors undertook the project of operating the concession stands, which are traditionally the class responsibility. A large group of the class helped in the time consuming project of keeping basketball and wrestling fans well served with refreshments. Dramatic talents were displayed by V.L. Conrad, Margaret Schell, and John Penn in the first all-school production of the year, "Mary, Mary.", with Carolyn Simpson, and Joan Hughes making significant contributions in "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Juniors Carry Major Responsibility Roles

Junior class members were active in all school organizations. On the Student Council scene, V.L. Conrad and Leigh Ann Riggs served as Parliamentarian and Corresponding Secretary. Six junior cheerleaders, including two alternates, led the vibrant classes in cheers at pep rallies and sporting events. One of these outstanding pepsters, Pam Roach, was chosen junior attendant to Miss East Central I. Fifteen juniors made the A-squad football team, with Robert Hughes receiving Honorable Mention as "Back of the Week" in the Tulsa World. Leigh Ann Riggs and Barbara Willis were semi-finalists in the Americans Abroad program. Cardinale activities were boosted by Christy Baker, Secretary, Sue Ehlen, Treasurer, and Paula Hopkins, Vice President of East Central's exuberant pep club.

EC Greets Newcomers

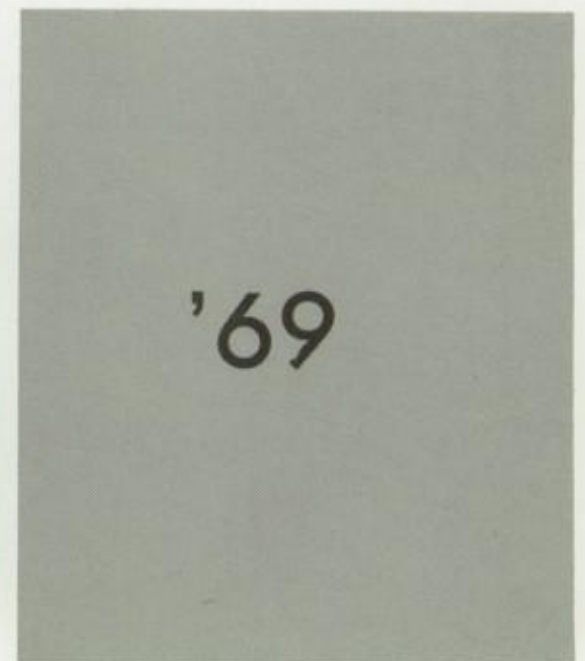

Dances, athletic events, plays, assemblies, and organizations greeted 389 curious and excited new sophomores to East Central. The initiative which sophomores took their first year in Student Council, Thespians, and other organizations proved their merit as hard workers and school supportees and pleased the first-year sponsor, Jim Wagoner. Candy sales, the canned goods drive, and door decorations found sophs competing hard, at the same time managing to attain high scores on the three day Otis Achievement Test, exhibiting the ability of this group to maintain academic as well as social activities. Janet Murphy, a B-squad cheerleader, tearfully accepted congratulations as she was elected Sophomore attendant to Miss East Central I., a new tradition which greeted sophs.

Jim Wagoner, sophomore sponsor, praised the class for quick school adaptation.

The sophomore class got off to a good start under the leadership of Ricky Staton, president, Liz Geis, secretary-treasurer, and Bart Lauderdale, Vice president.

Soph Girls Won The Swim Meet

B-squad cheerleaders are looking forward to next year.

Class Officers Took The Lead

Sophs were eager to decorate and cook for Thanksgiving festivities.

Sophomore class president Ricky Staton, along with Bart Lauderdale, vice-president, and Liz Geis, secretary-treasurer, maintained continuous class activities to keep the sophomores informed, in addition to providing many hours of interesting pastime. As sophomores progressed through their first year, the faculty realized that this class would be one which would establish itself academically and socially to the climate of an effective and resourceful high school life.

CTIVITIES

... Academic Leaders ...

Stress on academic quality was encouraged as the National Honor Society's 12 holdover members inducted 29 new members in the traditional pinning ceremony at the beginning of the year. In addition to the regular scholastic activities, fund raising activities such as a "car bash" were highlights of the hard working members who gave much of their time which placed them in National Honor Society to help for worthwhile causes. Sponsor O.D. Bell looked on with approval as the group promoted pride and school spirit.

Council Sponsored Boy And Girl Of The Month

Pride was instilled in East Central's student body through many projects which were under the immediate sponsorship of the Student Council. Sponsor Brenda Briscoe oversaw such worthwhile projects as a permanent Christmas tree for the school, a canned goods drive for needy families, and an all-school landscaping drive. Parliamentary procedure was taught as students endorsed and rejected ideas for the benefit of the student body at large. All school-sponsored proposals came before this governing body for consideration before they were officially accepted and passed on to the administration for approval.

Student Council officers on front row are Garry Gallier, Vice-President, V. L. Conrad, Parliamentarian, Dana Biggs, Treasurer, Leigh Ann Riggs, Corresponding Secretary, Vickie Galloway, Secretary, and J. B. Avants, President.

Boasting a membership of 70 members, East Central's Cardinal Band increased its public appearances and stage performances.

EC Cardinal Band Gains Prominence

Public performances on the field and in concerts highlighted the ever-increasing Cardinal Band season. Before the band began its actual performance season, it received the advantage of hearing the US Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus. The band added to the festivities of the Tulsa State Fair, Christmas parade, and O.U. Band Day by marching on parade. Machetes, fire batons, and dance routines were the end product of endless hours of rehearsals, in addition to summer camp and workouts. The band ended its year of performance under director Dennis Kelliher with the crowning of their queen during the annual Spring Concert and playing for traditional Commencement exercises.

Mr. Dennis Kelliher, director, and band members rehearsed long hours to prepare for contests and E.C. stage performances.

Eight lovely and talented majorettes entertained Cardinal fans when the squad was featured three times during football halftime ceremonies. Training for the majorettes began after school closed in 1966 as the girls traveled to Monett, Missouri to learn many of their routines which were displayed during parades and pep rallies. The squad was led by Head Majorette Debbie Burson and Assistant Jennifer Sheffield.

Music Department Expands At E.C.

A growing music department at East Central promoted musical organizations for community service to Tulsa in the form of glee clubs, vocal groups, concert choirs, marching band, orchestra, and instrumental ensembles. Much emphasis was placed on training musicians to participate in music at the college level. Under the direction of Mr. Dennis Kelliher and Mrs. Virginia Erbert, East Central's musicians were well represented in parades, district and state musical contests, the all-city performance of the Messiah, orchestra and chorus of all Tulsa schools, and the Tulsa Youth Symphony.

Practicing flute runs are Ruth Douglas, Jennifer Sheffield, and Linda Newman.

James Evans, Brenda Holland, and Directors Kelliher and Erbert made outstanding contributions to music department.

East Central's Concert Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Erbert, right, gained prestige during public appearances. Sporting white "After-Five" dresses and dress blazers, the group sang for the Tulsa principals and the Bell Junior High faculty.

Musicians, Actors Staged Quality Shows

"Practice Makes Perfect" was the East Central concert chorus motto this year. The choir spent many hours preparing for its trip to Stillwater to participate in the State Festival, practicing for the Christmas presentation of Handel's Messiah and the spring program with Haydn's Mass in D Minor. Under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Erbert, the chorus also performed for a Christmas assembly, a "Fun" assembly, and the annual Easter assembly.

Concert Choir members Jan Polumbus, Carol Yandian, and Pam Murphy practice harmonizing before going on-stage for E.C.'s Christmas program.

Aspiring dramatists joined together to form East Central's first drama club, the Thespians. Under the direction of Richard Bradley, the group is shown enacting an old-fashioned "mellerdramer".

Thespian officers are Eric Edwards, Kathy Bell, Marsha Rose, and Carla Looney.

Thespians And Stage Craft Crew Work Hand In Hand For EC Drama Productions.

Drama productions proved successful as stagecraft director Scott Linder and Richard Bradley, all-school production director, coordinated professional sets for such plays as "Mary, Mary", "The Diary of Anne Frank," and "Miracle Worker". Thespians sponsored playbill programs, gave behind-the-scenes profiles on all action taking place up to the night of performance.

Scott Linder and his crew provided backdrops, sound effects, and lighting for major performances.

Stagecraft and Audio-Visual members performed other services to the school, including running films and tape recorders for classroom teachers.

Publications Keep Cardinals Well Informed

Shown measuring and cropping pictures are Kathy O'Mara, Dana Biggs, and Terry Erbert.

"The Cardinal Preserves" Each Year Of EC. History

A pictorial account of social, academic, and extra-curricular life was displayed through the efforts of 15 yearbook students who worked sixth hour, and before and after school, to prepare the yearbook for publication. All phases of life at East Central were shown in various sections of the book. In order to meet pressing deadlines, yearbook students planned the theme and color pictures a year in advance of publication. Student photographers were used to take all pictures but those which appear in color, or the "classes" and major "organization" sections.

Sandy Chumley, editor, and Debbie Burson, co-editor, guided the over-all policy and picture selection in the book.

Two News Papers Flash Weekly News, Sports

Two thriving newspapers, Cardinal News and School Life, kept East Centralites well informed and entertained during the school year. Under a returning sponsor, Mrs. Nikki Bryant, Cardinal News provided news and feature stories "close to home". A publication board functioned in selecting materials to be used in the school papers. School Life staffers, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Janet Armstrong, competed with eight other high school journalism staffs for space in the traditional inter-school publication. Some 30 aspiring journalists from both classes climaxed their writing year with a trip to Press Day at the University of Tulsa.

Under the guidance of Celia Taylor, co-editor, and Jan Polumbus, editor, School Life staffers obtained maximum coverage for East Central.

Pep Club Ranks Swelled By Size And Activity

An all time high of 100 members strengthened East Central's pep club, as the Cardinalettes obtained new red and white uniforms and made a bid as one of the most colorful pep squads in the Tulsa schools. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Pat Holder, Cardinalettes also activated money-raising projects by selling spirit ribbons and pom-poms, sponsoring a girls' swim meet, ping-pong tournaments, and bake sales. The most rewarding project of the year was a "double-cause" drive. The girls bought fruitcakes from the school band to help purchase new band uniforms, sending the fruitcakes to U.S. troops in Viet Nam.

Cardinal Cheerleaders Rouse School Spirit

Morale is often a deciding factor in whether a team wins or loses and to this end, E.C. cheerleaders devoted their time, energy, spirit, and sportmanship to rouse school spirit. The cheerleaders attended all fall, winter, and spring sports which help boost E.C. on to numerous victories. They taught cheers to Pep Club, conducted Pep Assemblies and a clinic for B-Squad cheerleaders and the cardinal mascot.

Shown in pyramid formation are A-Squad cheerleaders Dee Ann Hubbard, Carla Looney, captain, Carol Dillard, Pam Roach, Rita Norton, and Kathie O'Mara, co-captain.

Library Activities Expand At E.C.

With Mrs. Norma Barnes as sponsor, the East Central Librarian association was formed so that members might help promote the use of the school library facilities. This goal was accomplished through the sponsorship of two paperback book fairs and an open house for the teachers and clerical staff.

Librarians stressed constantly a service which was friendly and courteous, both to teachers and students. In search of better methods of librarianship, members attended Oklahoma Student Librarian Association district meetings and the annual O.S.L.A. state convention at Oklahoma University.

Library Club officers are Jenny Peck, Pat Collings, Jan Mullins, John Cooley, and Virginia Ward.

Red Cross members, sponsored by Miss Carol Marsh, sponsored one of the most popular shows of the year, "The Faculty Spoof."

Red Cross Raised Charity Funds

Aligned with the national Red Cross of America, East Central students contributed their time and effort to the goals of this organization by raising money for local and international causes. Red Cross members filled Christmas stockings for the Taft orphanage and Vietnamese orphans. They washed car windows to raise money for the blood bank drive, in addition to providing entertainment for the Tulsa county farm.

Red Cross officers are Michelle Heath, President, seated, Tita Coates, Joan Hughes and Caryl Simpkins

An "international" celebration highlighted the year as El Circulo Espanol members sponsored a Christmas party for German, French, and Spanish students. Guest speakers throughout the year from Chili, Paraguay, Costa Rica, and Venezuela spoke to the club on interesting customs of their native lives.

Spanish Club officers are Paula Hopkins, Barbara Hughes, Helen Bennett, Carolyn Simpson, and Carol Yandian.

In Depth And Popularity

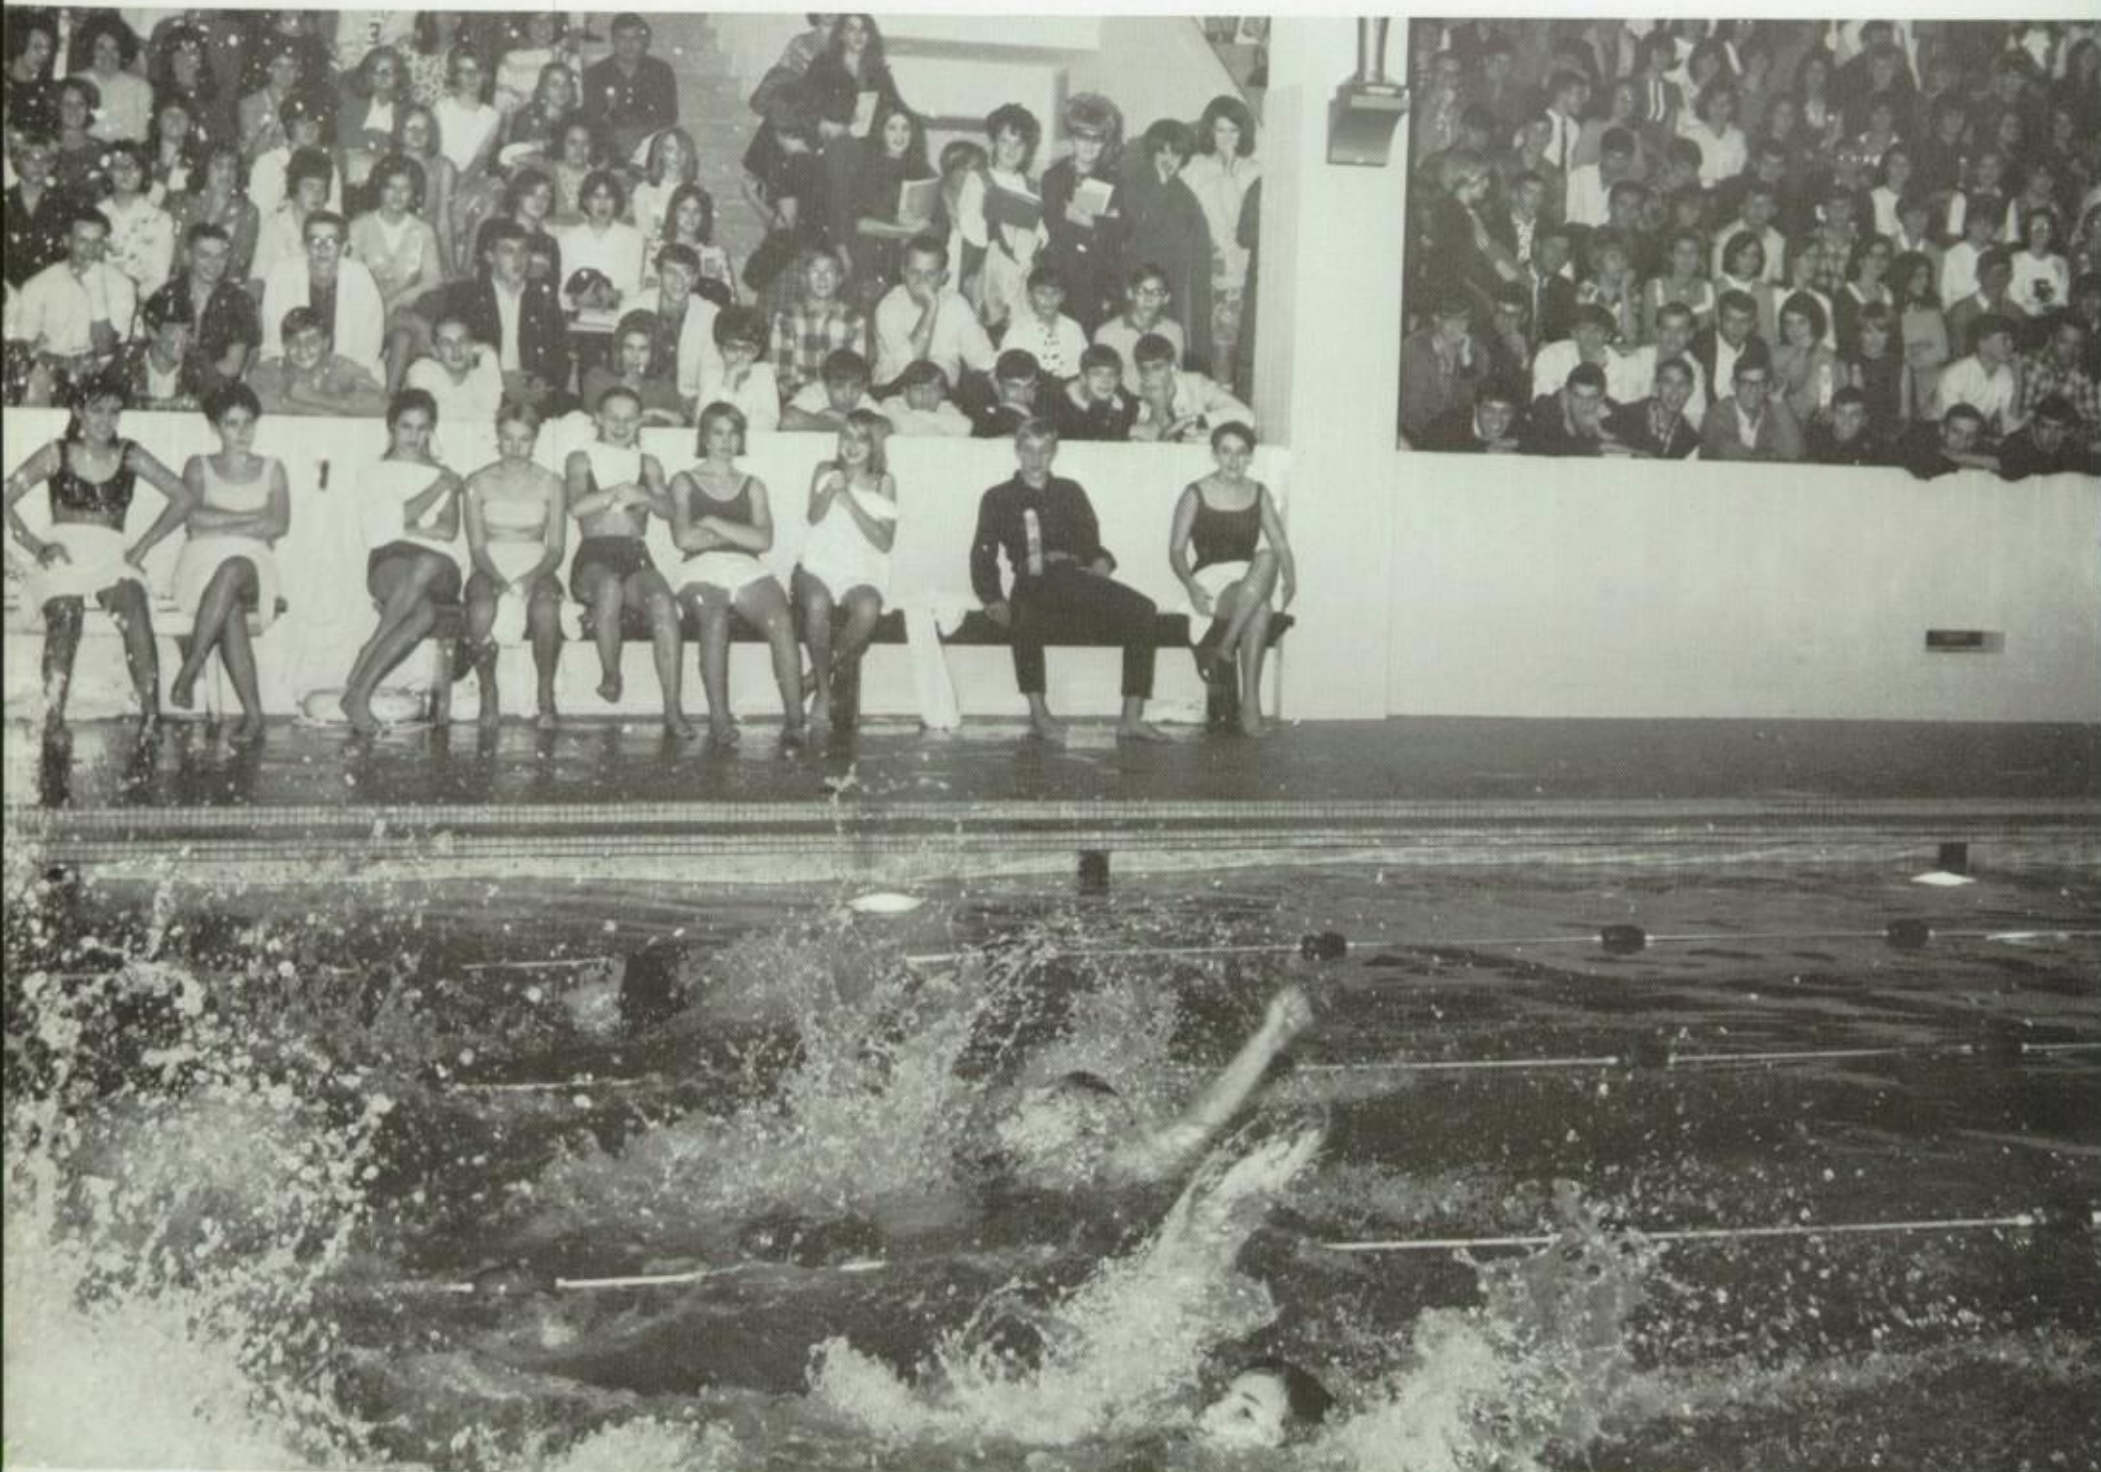

"Anne Frank's" dramatic conflicts were depicted with maturity by Diana Bailey, Joan Hughes, and Tita Coates.

A surge of interest complemented East Central's theatrical department this year, as play casting was open to all three grades and drama productions doubled in number. A fitting climax to a year of hard work came as twelve awards were presented for best actors, actresses and behind-the-scene workers at a Thespian banquet. Another new tradition, acting awards, was established at East Central.

Strengthened by their second year of active membership, East Central's Lettermen, under the sponsorship of Eddie Dyer, perpetuated the "T" of sportsmanship and athletic quality.

Lettermen Lead The Way In EC Fitness Programs

Lettermen took an active part in the fitness program as they participated in all school athletic programs, including a very popular weight lifting program which was initiated at the end of the football season. Lettermen were guided by second year sponsor Eddie Dyer, with Jim Toney serving as president, David Silver as vice-president, Steve Massey as secretary, and Steve Dunham as sergeant-at-arms. The club's main project for the year was a strong membership drive for Tulsa's Quarterback Club. Swimmers, tracksters, gridders, cagers—all athletes were represented in the club as members designed the new letter to be worn on East Central's red and white school jacket. The traditional "T", bordered by an "E" and a "C" on either side was accepted enthusiastically by the Lettermen.

Gymnastics Stressed In Physical Education

Fitness through gymnastics was beneficial to all physical education classes as new teaching devices were introduced by instructors Pat Holder and Gerald Clark. Industrial Arts Department

East Central's fully equipped and modern Industrial Arts department offers unique opportunities for students to explore the possibilities of such diversified industrial fields as drafting, woodwork, power mechanics, and machine shop. Both theory and practical application of these skills are involved, not only to enable students to save money by maintaining their own cars, or building their own cabinets and book cases, but also to transmit their working knowledge on to college or Tulsa's Vocational-Tech school for job training.

John Brown, Jim Walker, and Mr. Duane Selvey discuss the operation of the metal lathe.

Busy at the power sanding machine are Richard Kyles and Bill Danderson.

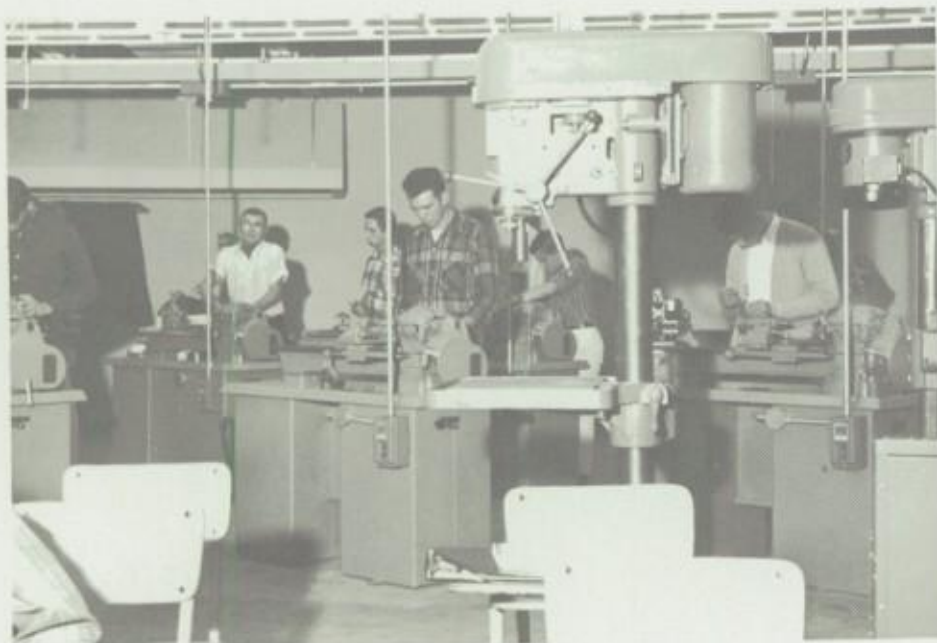

Auto mechanics students learn to diagnose and repair engine difficulties.

Affords Unlimited Opportunities

Students learn the performance and capacity of various tools to perform their work with precision. The department contains a new heat treating unit which tempers metal to the desired point of manipulation for shaping. Power mechanics and machine shop students work with modern arc and acetylene welders. Draftsmen turn out finished blueprints on a "Blu Ray" printing machine. All students are required to use safety devices and observe rigid safety regulations at all times while using the equipment. Goggles are used at metal lathe machines to protect eyes against flying fragments of steel filings.

Industrious students utilize East Central's technical equipment to the fullest advantage for future jobs.

Drafting students learn the aspects of technical drawing. Mr. Don Randolph and Phil Eads are shown checking a blueprint.

EC Board Of Control Regulates Finances

East Central's Board of Control is responsible for all transactions of student activity funds. All purchases and payments must be approved by this body, which meets weekly. Board of Control members included Principal James W. Payne, Opal Lloyd, George Dorsch, Jim Quetone, Paula Gallier, and J. B. Avants. Sondra Conner is Treasurer.

Interscholastic Committee Reviews Group Policies

The Interscholastic Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. O. D. Bell, worked long hours during its first full year to solidify new traditions "in-the-making" at East Central and serve classes in years to come. Comprised of students and faculty members, the committee reviewed constitutions for new organizations, suggested revisions, and established ways and means to bring about a uniform procedure for such annual events as Homecoming activities, coronation ceremonies for Miss East Central, and the election of band royalty.

Board of Control members J. B. Avants, Mrs. Opal Lloyd, and Principal J. W. Payne acted on all financial matters pertaining to the student body.

School Governing Bodies Make Final Decisions

Interscholastic members for 1966-67 were Mrs. Pat Holder, J. B. Avants, Mrs. Florence Schupbach, O. D. Bell, chairman, Leigh Ann Riggs, Miss Brenda Briscoe, V. L. Conrad, Mrs. Janet L. Armstrong, Principal J. W. Payne, and Dana Biggs.

A good snap from center is a determining factor in the success of a football team.

Although being out-classed and out-sized, the Cardinals managed to show other Tulsa teams that what they lacked in size and strength, they more than doubled in spirit and determination. The Cardinals did know victory, too. Much excitement and happiness was provided when the Cardinals won their first Magic Empire Conference game by dropping Webster 6-0.

Taking advantage of a Webster fumble the Cards sent Mike Mills three yards for the only touchdown in the game. Tom Hall gave an impressive punting performance with a 52.5 yard average to help East Central gain a welcome victory. Although many lettermen will graduate, there will be several junior starters returning.

The Cardinal B-Squad compiled a 2-5 record with triumphs over McLain, 18-0, and Webster 6-0.

Much time, work, and effort was put forth by these dedicated players. The experience they gained through the year helped to provide more qualified and experienced boys for the future.

Basketball . . . Hard Work

Greg Sellers jumps high for the tie ball.

The E.C.A.-squad, coached by Jim Quetone, gave their fans many thrills during the 66-67 season. They started the season with a bang by taking first place in the Nowata Tournament and by defeating conference favorite McLain in their first conference game. The Cardinals will lose four starters, seniors, Greg Sellers, Ed Black, Tom Hall, and Gene Povlick, but starters Mike Pemberton and subs Marty Armstrong and Chris Millwee will provide the backbone for next year's squad, which will be a conference contender.

The B-Squad coached by Bill Stephens finished the season with a record of 8-8. Having defeated McLain, Washington, Sapulpa, Bartlesville, Oklahoma City, Classen and Broken Arrow.

This year's squad promises to provide a well rounded team for next year. It will be the responsibility of the B-Squad to fill the vacancies left by the graduating seniors on the A-Squad.

Senior letterman, Gary Gallier forces opponent into pinning position.

Most people think that wrestling is just a contest of strength, but much more is required of a wrestler than merely physical ability. In fact wrestling is more than ninety per cent mental strength, which includes: desire to win and a knowledge of takedowns, switches, reverses and pins. Conditioning adds to speed and physical strength. Running, calisthenics, chinups, and situps help the wrestler to improve himself. EC grapplers began early in the year in order to meet these requirements.

Tom Foster demonstrates a take-down in a grueling practice session.

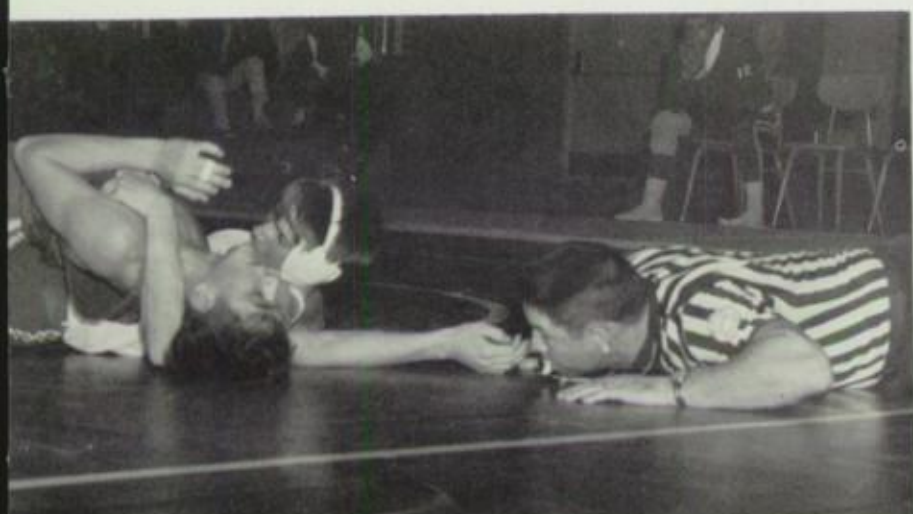

Competition Is Keen

Although EC finished last in the conference as a team there were many outstanding wrestling individuals. Much ability was displayed in seniors Monte Wise, who placed third in the Sallisaw, Tournament, Jim Toney who placed first in the EC Tourney, and Gary Gallier who placed second in both Tournaments. These boys finished the season with records of 12-3, 8-3, 11-5 respectively.

Juniors Tom Foster, and Paul Krumme are expected to be standouts on the 1968 squad.

Tensed for action, E. C. and Central relay swimmers await the sound of the gun.

Tom Crook shows top form on the crawl stroke which helped the Cardinals triumph over McLain.

Rick Hall completes a backward dive during a practice session in E.C.'s Natatorium.

Having the ability to place second in the Magic Empire Conference takes many long hours of practice and devotion. E.C.'s swim team worked diligently to represent their school well. The tankers ended the season with a 6-5 record, with triumphs over B.T.W., McLain and Webster. The team will lose top pointers Jim Damet, Tom Crook, Neal Browne, and Jon Ritchey next year but top prospects such as Max Wells, Mike Mauldin, David Jarboe and Robbie Slagle will be around to spearhead the team in 1968.

Seven Baseball Lettermen Return

Baseball, one of E.C.'s most popular spring sports, is growing as the seasons go by.

In 1966 the Cardinals were able to capture the Regional trophy and went on to nab the "State Runner-up" title under the able guidance of coach Bill Stephens.

The team has returning lettermen, Dave Latting, Gene Povlick, Mike Pemberton, Tom Hall, Bob McCall, Ralph McCall, and Scooter Ludiker for the 1967 season.

Speed Is A Keynote In Track Competition

Jeff Ferguson limbers up before the relays begin.

Coach Dyer worked with the track team many long hours to help the Cards build up the strength and speed that is the essential thing in track competition. Track is usually overshadowed by baseball at E.C., but it is quickly becoming more popular as the years go by.

The East Central tennis team faced a very fine season with seven lettermen returning. Much ability was expected from leading prospects, Mike Hawkins, Dennis Morse and Steve Carvello.

Since the CARDINAL went to press before the tennis matches began, the coverage is slight but much success from the team was expected.

Mike Hawkins and Ken Lambert display the customary handshake over the net before a match.

Introducing . . .

Miss East Central
Miss Carla Looney

Miss East Central Hails A New Tradition

Queen Carla and her court were introduced in an elaborate November assembly in which Carla was crowned to reign as queen for the year.

School pride came to East Central as the new tradition of Miss East Central was introduced to an enthusiastic student body. Football players nominated four senior girls, who were presented in an assembly and voted upon by the entire student body. Miss East Central I was Carla Looney, who amidst tears and much happiness, was crowned by David Silver in lavish ceremonies. Vickie Galloway, Pam Roach, and Janet Murphy were elected class attendants. Each girl reacted in an excited, yet very poised manner, with tears in every instance. At the coronation assembly, attendants elegantly gowned in red were escorted by football players. Given her crown, robe, and bracelet, Miss Carla Looney was proclaimed Miss East Central I.

Tearful and sentimental, Carla welcomed the news. Vickie couldn't believe she was chosen.

Surprised was the expression of Janet Murphy.

Pam was calm when she first heard the news.

"Oh, how much more
Doth beauty beauteous

By that sweet ornament
Which truth doth give"

Debbie Burson Reigns As 1967 EC Band Queen

A tradition of long standing was observed the evening of February 23 at the annual Pop Concert when Miss Debbie Burson was crowned Band Queen for 1967. Debbie is a nine-year band member and an eight-year majorette.

Drum Major Jon Ritchey escorted Debbie and proclaimed her Queen of the Band during solemn ceremonies, during which Debbie's six year old sister, Mary Beth, carried the coronation flowers. Attendants were Janice Barr, senior, Jennifer Sheffield, junior, and Diana Flynn, sophomore.

(1) Debbie was crowned by band captain Jon Ritchey.

(2) Janice Barr, senior attendant, is an accomplished piccolo player.

(3) Junior attendant Jennifer Sheffield was an outstanding twirler for the marching band.

A Season Of "Boys And Girls"

East Central presents its "Boys and Girls" of the rolling seasons.

Members of the Student Council spiced the school seasons by electing outstanding students to the honor of "Boy and Girl of the Month." Academic qualities, school pride, and spirit were traits considered as seniors were nominated by the Student Council representatives. Each month the two honorees were photographed and their biographies written up in the Tulsa Tribune.

The highest honor of the year came as two students were chosen as "Boy and Girl of the Year" at East Central and entered into competition with other Tulsa schools for scholarships and other awards.

September Sets A Pace For Active Months

Recipients of citizenship awards: Vickie and J.B. both have served on the Interscholastic Committee, Senior Board, and The Cardinal yearbook staff.

During Indian Summer weather and the excitement of returning to school, East Centralites christened the school year by electing Mildred Victoria Galloway and James Benjamin Avants, Jr. to fill the positions of "Boy and Girl of the Month" for September. Vickie's many awards include being "Neatest" girl of her sophomore and junior years, secretary to the Student Council, Senior Queen Attendant, and the senior girl "Most Likely to Succeed." In his junior year, J.B. was chosen "Wittiest" boy of his class and also served as Vice-President of the Student Council. During his senior year, J.B. served as Student Council President, the senior boy "Most Likely to Succeed", photographer for The Cardinal yearbook, and student correspondent for the Tulsa World.

For September: Vickie and J.B.

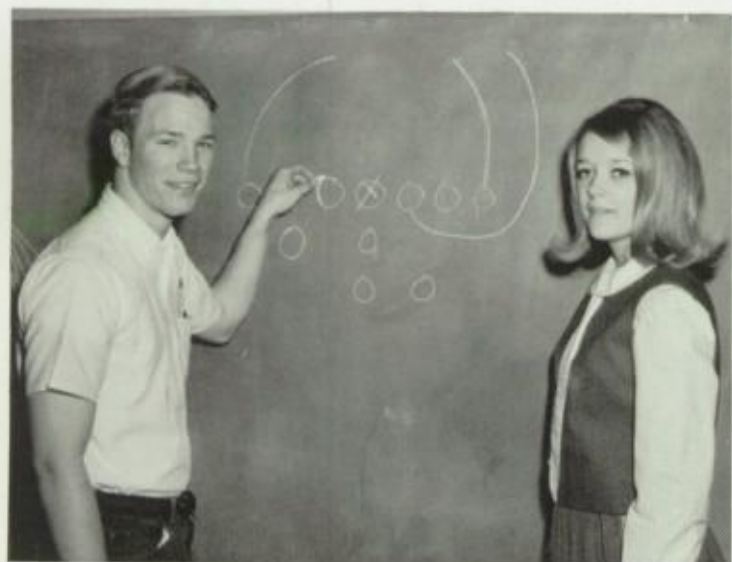

Debbie and Gary served as Junior and Senior Board members.

The thrill of football and cross-country set the scene for autumn as Cardinals elected Deboarh Lynn Burson and Gary Alan Gallier as "Girl and Boy" for October. Debbie distinguished herself by being elected "Best All Around" girl of East Central for three years in a row. Her greatest honor, according to Debbie, was being voted Band Queen for 1967. Gary's accomplishments included being Vice-President of the Student Council in his senior year, a three-year member of the wrestling team, and a two-year letterman.

For October: Debbie and Gary

Autumn Days Bring Sporting Thrills:

For November: Carla and David

Carla Jean Looney and David Lloyd Silver were chosen "Girl and Boy" for November. The highlight of Carla's senior year occurred when she was elected to the honor of Miss East Central I. She was chosen "Best Looking" girl of her class in her junior and senior years, and served as treasurer of Thespians. David excelled in the sporting world at East Central. He starred on the Cardinal football team for three years, and in his senior year was chosen Vice-President of the Lettermen's Club. He played sousaphone in the band for three years.

Carla and David figured prominently in football activities, Carla as cheerleader and David as tri-captain of the team.

Cold winds and brisk days accelerated student progress, as academic leaders Nancy Janette Stouffer and Neal Judson Browne were elected as "Girl and Boy" of January. Nancy's greatest achievement came during her junior year when she was sent to Girls' State as East Central's delegate. She is also Secretary-Treasurer of the 1967 senior class. Neal has served as President of Youth for Christ for two years and was co-captain of the swimming team.

For January: Nancy and Neal

Neal and Nancy are both National Honor Society members.

And Winter Days, Acceleration.

While Mike participates in Cardinal sports, Dana "writes him up" for the sports section of the yearbook.

For December: Dana and Mike

December "Boy and Girl" of the Month" were Dana Lynn Biggs and Carl Michael Sneed. In her senior year Dana was a member of the publications board for Cardinal News, treasurer of the Student Council, member of the Senior Board, member of the National Honor Society, and Sports Editor of The Cardinal yearbook. Mike has lettered in football for three years and in baseball for two years. He is also a member of the Senior Board.

Fellow journalists on the School Life staff, Gene and Kathy also are both active members of the Senior Board

Valentine and Easter holiday themes set the mood as East Centralites elected Katherine Lynn Bell and Gene Alfred Covington as "Girl and Boy" for February. Kathy was a Cardinal majorette for two years, the character of "Tiffany" in "Mary, Mary", and Secretary of Thespians. Gene served as President of the senior class and was chosen "Friendliest" boy at East Central for three years in a row. Representing the spirit of East Central, Gene portrayed the "Cardinal Bird" at all athletic events. He was also Vice-President of his Junior class.

For February: Kathy and Gene

Holidays Bring Social Whirls:

For March: Vicki and Bruce

Vicki Irene Harris and Randall Bruce Hancock were chosen "Girl and Boy" for March. A two-year pep club member, Vicki also was active in Spanish club, Student Council, and Mu Alpha Theta. She attended the Petroleum Industry Seminar during her senior year. Bruce achieved recognition during his senior year as President of the National Honor Society, and as President of East Central's math club, Mu Alpha Theta. He was a two-year letterman. Both Vicki and Bruce were honor roll members during their sophomore years.

National Honor Society owes its guidance in 1967 to Bruce, President, Vickie, Secretary.

High sentiment and memories prevailed during the drawing days of graduation as Cardinals chose Gloria Jean Blankenship and Walter Gene Povlick as "Girl and Boy" for May. Gloria was an honor roll student for three years, a two-year member of Spanish Club and Student Council, and a reporter for Cardinal News. Gene lettered in baseball for three years, and in basketball for two years. He was chosen "Best All Around" boy of the Junior class. He was an active member of Junior Red Cross and Junior Civitan.

For May: Gloria and Gene

Gene and Gloria were elected to represent the spirit of May, the month of graduation.

And Spring Days, Graduation.

High academic students, Joe and Enid also share an interest in musical activities.

For April: Enid and Joe.

Enid Andrea Anderson and Joseph Thomas Camp were elected "Girl and Boy" for April. Enid was a three-year honor roll member. In her sophomore year, she was chosen "Friendliest" girl, and served as president of Spanish Club. She was an active member of Concert Chorus and The Cardinal yearbook for two years. The high point of Joe's academic career occurred when he attained the rank of Semi-Finalist in The National Merit Scholarship. A three-year band and honor roll member, Joe as president of Chess Club.

32 Outstanding Students Were Elected To

MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED:
Seniors: J.B. Avants and Vicki Galloway

Seniors: Carla Looney and Gary Campbell

BEST LOOKING:
Sophomores: Tom Mackie and Betty Beavers

Each year East Central observes one of its most time-honored traditions, the election of "Who's Who" positions. Write-in ballots, based on individual popularity, determine the coveted class positions of "Best Looking," "Friendliest," "Wittiest," "Neatest," and "Best All Around." "Most Likely to Succeed" is specifically relegated to the most outstanding senior boy and girl of the class, as decided by their classmates. J.B. Avants and Vickie Galloway were the 1967 recipients of this honor.

Faculty Commends 23 Students For Scholarship, Civic Work.

Students who enter the traditional Hall of Fame are indicative of a successful year at East Central. This year a faculty board selected 23 students, the highest number ever commended in proportion to total enrollment, to reflect the vision and contribution of youth to society. The students were complimented, not only on academic achievement, but for their personal effort to school projects, organizations, and cooperation regarding community events.

Mrs. J. L. Armstrong Choice For 1967 Dedication

"Happy is he that palace of whose affection is founded upon virtue, walled with riches, glazed with beauty, and roofed with honour."

-Frances Quarles-

The 1967 Cardinal staff dedicates this book to Mrs. Janet L. Armstrong, sponsor, for her endless enthusiasm and hard work, which is exemplified in the compilation of the 1967 yearbook. In addition to having sponsored the yearbook for four years, Mrs. Armstrong also teaches English, Journalism, and Developmental Reading. She serves on East Central's Interscholastic Committee, a committee designed to unify student organization procedures.

Editor's Message

To the Senior class of 1967:

With the closing pages of this book, we each have many fond and wonderful memories of the years we have experienced at East Central. There were good times when we were ecstatic with our victories, large and small, and other times when we were saddened by defeats; but the total time was rich with fulfillment of youth and learning.

We are grateful to Mr. Bell, our Senior class sponsor, who for six years has led senior classes through trials and triumphs. A special "thanks" goes to Mr. Payne, our counselors, and teachers, who have been so instrumental in influencing our decisions - decisions which were crucial as this year drew to a close.

The Senior class attained the distinction of attending the new East Central for the first full year and helped solidify the many new traditions created this year. Each of us was proud of the spirit with which our class undertook the many projects to improve our school. For this, The Cardinal yearbook we now give to you, the graduating class of 1967.

Sandy Chumley, editor, and The Cardinal staff.
